How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.
As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

HIGHER EDUCATION OF WOMEN.

What the Wealth of a Pennsylvania Millionaire Is Doing to Advance It.

The opening of the Drexel institute in Philadelphia marks another forward step in the enlarged provision for the education of women. The institution is indeed designed for the training of both young men and women, but its advantages are equally available to either sex, and the beneficent purpose of the founder, as we happen to know, has had especially in mind the enlargement of the opportunities for women in the direction particularly of manual and kindred training. It was a gracious purpose, and what has been nobly planned has been nobly built.

No structure for a kindred use, so complete and stately, exists today in this country. A vast expenditure of money has been attended with excellent taste and marvelous thoroughness of detail. If elegant and costly surroundings are themselves an education—and in one sense undoubtedly they are—then those who are to be pupils within the walls of the Drexel institute will have a daily stimulus to do worthy work in a worthy way.

The range of teaching runs all the way from cooking to bookkeeping and stenography, and includes some eleven departments more or less kindred to these. Any one who knows what American cooking at its average point is will invoke a blessing on this new center of "sweetness and light" and any business man who has striven to master the intricacy of feminine accounts, as kept by the "girl of the period," will be glad to learn that the sex is to learn at least that a checkbook full of blank checks does not mean an account with an indefinite balance to the credit. But when this is said, it is well to recognize that the education of women, in its highest sense, calls for something more than the enlargement of opportunities for technical training.

It is undoubtedly true that the demand in this country is more and more for that kind of education which can be converted quickest to some wage earning purpose, and in the case of women this is especially the case, but what a people want is, after all, a very imperfect measure of what they need, and admirable as is every provision which beneficence may make for the training of women in bread earning handicrafts, it is not, and cannot be, her highest training.

Whether for better or worse, we have emancipated her from the old limitations which so largely shut her away from direct contact with what, for want of a better phrase, I may call outdoor life. She has been bidden to stand upon her own feet, to earn her own bread, to live her own life, if no man asks her to come and be the center of his home and share his life with him. If already everywhere the ballot has not been put in her hand, in many places it has been or soon will be.

She is in directories, on school boards, charitable commissions, in editorial chairs, inspects almshouses and insane asylums, and, in a word, is or is likely to be bidden to a great many tasks in which it will not in the smallest degree help her that she can handle a telegraph key or play on a typewriter. For tasks such as I have indicated, women want extra scientific knowledge of the highest character, a training in the habit of thinking accurately and reasoning logically, and a discipline of those noblest powers of the mind which, it cannot be denied, ages of domestic subordination have done little to awaken or develop.

It may be urged, indeed, that a woman's intuitions are usually better and surer than a man's most labored conclusions, and there is truth in such a plea. But the subject of intuitions is, unless some other powers are developed, not unlikely to be also the subject of emotions which, for the time being, dismiss mere intentions wholly out of the horizon. If women are given the ballot we are told that they will use it quite as often as a weapon to express their unreasoning dislikes as they will to enforce their better convictions; and the charge is, or easily may be, true, until a woman has learned enough political and social economy to realize that her ballot is a weapon with which to guard both the sanctities of the state and the hearthstone, rather than a cowhide with which to chastise an unpopular candidate.—Henry C. Potter in New York Post.

Wraps and Sundries.

The slender, graceful effects in dress now considered most elegant require the rich, handsome materials which importers of French goods have brought over. The new silks are not only brocades, but brocades scattered with figures in shot effects, in the same way that the plain satins and plain silks have been figured in color during the summer. Though these Pompadour silks are no longer distinctively new, yet the new patterns differ so greatly by being brought out on a brocaded ground that they promise to have a new lease of popularity. The regular Jacquard brocade in the new waving and other geometric patterns, and the Jacquard brocades figured with overshot figures in color, will be popular for house dresses to be worn at parties and on high dinner occasions. The princess effect is given to all these gowns, which are made up with a combination and trimming of black lace or dark velvet, though as a rule velvet is not so much used in combination with silk this season as it is with cloth.

A new overdress similar to the straight Directoire polonaise of years ago is made up to wear with bell skirts, and in such case this straight overskirt is of different material from the underskirt. Princess dresses, made up with spreading bias back seams below the waist line, so as to give the effect of a bell skirt at the back, are much more desirable for women who are of medium height than the bell skirt with a second overdress. The use of two skirts in the present style of dress requires considerable height and elegance of carriage, and smaller women are advised to adhere to the simplest style.—Helena Rowe in Good Housekeeping.

Profits from Charity Entertainments.

There was a time in the history of charity entertainments when the charity and of them did not get much, but time and experience have taught the good women how to conduct these affairs so as to make them pay handsomely. A facetious critic says, "The ladies who manage church fairs usually manage to buy low and sell high." Now the ladies do a great deal better than this, for they don't buy at all; they simply ask for everything they want for their fair or entertainment, and nine times out of ten they get the things they ask for. No wonder the charitable institutions hereabout are in such a flourishing condition.

Last spring the lady managers of the Consumptives' home paid the $5,000 mortgage with the money they made at the series of entertainments in the Pouch mansion. The "Venetian" ball, recently held in the Academy of Music for the benefit of the Homeopathic hospital, netted the snug sum of $7,000. The "Evening of Music" in the Hotel St. George, a few nights ago, cleared over $500 for the Working Girls' home, for whose benefit the musicale was held. By all means, let the good work go on.—Brooklyn Standard Union.

A Successful Woman Sculptor.

Alice Rideout, a young San Francisco girl of eighteen, has received the first prize in the contest of woman sculptors for designing the statuary that is to ornament the Woman's building at the World's fair. When three months ago, the women sculptors were informed that they might prepare designs for the contest, nearly a dozen responded, and various specimens of designs were sent in, but none satisfied the committee of experts except those of the slight, pretty Californian, who ought to be very proud of herself, because when Mrs. Palmer insisted that this work should be submitted to women, every one smiled at the suggestion.

The prize is not an empty honor, for Miss Rideout gets the contract for executing the full sized models, and will be paid about $8,000. The groups when finished will be ten feet high, some of them forty feet long, and they will decorate the attic cornice. Woman is the theme of each design. The Woman's building designed by Sophia G. Haden, of Boston, is nearer completion than any other on the fair grounds, and was under roof long before any of the others were commenced.—Chicago Letter.

Two Interesting Pincushions.

Upon the table presided over by the pretty "university girls" at the woman's suffrage bazaar in Horticultural hall are two pincushions which every woman will want to see and examine, and one of which, a little square of dark brown velvet trimmed with black lace, she will touch very tenderly, for the little old cushion was Margaret Fuller's, and used by her until she went abroad to become the Countess d'Ossoli and to meet her unhappy fate. Miss Anne Whitney gave the long time cherished little cushion to the fair.

The other cushion is a curious example of the old fashioned "cross stitch" on one side, with a time tinted satin cover on the other. It was bought forty-six years ago at the great fair which the women held to raise the funds to complete the Bunker Hill monument, all but the top, which was danced on by Fanny Elssler. It is filled with pins not removed since that fair.—Boston Herald.

A Reaction Against the Tall Girl.

A Twenty-third street dealer in women's shoes has felt the influence of the tall girl. "We have customers now to whom we cater with low heels," he said. "The tall girl differs from a man in not being proud of her height. She knows a little girl is more likely to be esteemed affectionate and loving by the men than is a tall girl. So she tries to get down to the loving level. Then, again, they know that the little girls have more chance of securing beaux, for the tall girl must restrict her hopes to the average sized or tall men. Short men do not like to go out with girls several inches taller, and so fall back on the petite. So, where men are having their heels made extra high, girls and women are having theirs lowered. What is true of all girl's shoes is equally true in regard to their hats. They are lowering them, too, and the flat hat is as sure to come in again as it is that the tall girl is here today."—New York Sun.

The Speaker's Sister.

Comparatively few are aware that Mrs. Ada Crisp Marsh, the recording secretary of the Woman's Press club and the wife of a well known theatrical man, is a sister of Speaker Charles F. Crisp. Her friends have been keeping her busy lately receiving their congratulations since the result of the contest at Washington. She is a bright little woman, full of good nature and devoted to the welfare of the Woman's Press club. She does considerable writing for the Sunday newspapers, but is exceedingly modest about her work and abominates sensationalism. She does not care much for society, and in that respect resembles Speaker Crisp's wife. Mrs. Marsh is usually present, however, at the meetings of the Goethe society, the Nineteenth Century club and in other intellectual gatherings. She lives in excellent style on Lexington avenue.—New York Advertiser.

Why Will Not Women Rebel?

The miseries of the sweeping skirts have never been more fully demonstrated than during the last fortnight of crowded and dusty thoroughfares. The amount of pavement dirt every woman who wears them takes home with her daily is very perceptible. Women with maids turn their clothing over to them and get speedily into fresh garments. Stockings and underwear are so loaded with dust that they are unfit to wear a second time without renovating. The women without maids spend an hour brushing and shaking to restore a degree of cleanliness. The bell skirts act like sweepers to gather but not hold the dirt. It is common to see women stop in vestibules and vigorously shake their skirts, leaving a cloud of dust in their wake. It is expensive, untidy, unwholesome and lots of other disagreeable things, but—we all do it.—Her Point of View in New York Times.

No Danger in Good Face Soap.

A curious prejudice that some people have against soap as an application for the face, this is a great fallacy. Good soap is a great beautifier, and a great preventive of the uncomely looking "blackheads" which are such a disfigurement and are so hard to get rid of. The real cause of these unpleasant little specks is not as a rule anything more serious than thise. Some people have much larger skin pores than others, and the dust collects, settles and finally forms a hard, black little substance which probably would never have had a chance of developing if the skin was thoroughly washed with soap twice a day and rubbed vigorously with a coarse towel. Do not be afraid of a red nose, the redness will soon fade quickly away and leave no trace.—New York Tribune.

Heroism of Indian Women Convicts.

A signal act of woman's heroism is recorded in connection with the loss of the Indian government marine steamer Enterprise during the terrific cyclone that recently swept over the Indian seas in the neighborhood of the Adaman islands. There is a penal settlement for India on these islands, and a band of women convicts, opposite whose prison the wreck occurred, rushed of their own accord into the storm tossed water, formed a chain by joining hands and tried to assist the shipwrecked crew, numbering eighty-three persons. Six lives were thus saved by these heroic Indian women, but the other seventy-seven members of the crew were drowned.—London Tit-Bits.

Bishop Potter to the Utica Girls.

Bishop Potter, in his address to the Girls' Friendly club of Utica, said: "I realize how different the present conditions are from those that prevailed when I was a boy. Then there were only two kinds of employment for girls besides housework—teaching and sewing. Probably there are in this city a hundred kinds of work for women. They are doing the things men used to do and doing them better. But they need not in consequence have the manners of men, talk as men talk, use slang and cigarettes or dress after the fashion of men."

A Woman Among Lepers.

Kate Marsden, writing from Irkutsk, in Siberia, says that she has ridden 2,000 miles on horseback beyond Yakootsk among the poor outcast lepers, who are hunted in the depths of the forest. She has supplied them with food and warm clothing for winter, and is raising funds to build them a hospital. She intends visiting other leper regions in Bokhara, then crossing the Caucasus mountains to Moscow and St. Petersburg to plead the cause of the lepers and prisoners before the empress.

Married and Unmarried.

According to Miss Collett, while we find 93 per cent. of the women of Whitechapel under forty-five are married, we find that only 33 per cent. of women at the same age are married in Hampstead. There are in Whitechapel only thirty-five unmarried women to every hundred unmarried men. In Kensington there are 378 unmarried women to every hundred unmarried men.—London Tit-Bits.

A Screen That May Be Popular.

Housewives will hail a recent invention in furnishing which is intended to take the place of cumbersome window screens. This invention is a window screen which rolls up and down like an ordinary window shade, and, it is said, offers complete protection from flies and mosquitoes, as it screens the whole window.—Exchange.

Housekeepers will do well to pursue to the death the big buzzing "bluebottle," who is making himself so noisily prominent at present. For every one that is executed there will be one less flourishing household of flies on some warm day this winter or early spring.

Twenty-five years have elapsed since the question of the university education of women was first started in Scotland, and many of those most deeply interested in it have died like the Israelites who started from Egypt, before seeing the land of promise.

The new Parisian fashion in stockings is made with separate compartments for each toe. This is said to be a sure cure for corns, which are caused by the rubbing of the skin against that of the neighboring toe.

In Haverhill, where many girls are employed in shoe factories, the King's Daughter circles have taken it upon themselves to help open comfortable boarding houses.

Mrs. William H. Crane has been the treasurer of her husband's theatrical company for more than ten years, and handles between $40,000 and $60,000 per month.

For those who must necessarily be under undue mental and physical strain a day of absolute rest from thought or work is the very best medicine.

Smith college started sixteen years ago with twelve pupils. It has graduated 800 young women and has 570 on its rolls.

Men are of necessity given up to business and depend upon women to furnish the intellectual and spiritual side of life.

WEDNESDAY, January 6th.

On motion of Supevisor Cady, in case of the great emergency arising from the damage done by the bridges and culverts destroyed by the recent flood, it was resolved to have them repaired without the usual formality of advertising for bids for said work, in accordance with Section 2713 of the road law.

In pursuance of the above resolution, on motion of Supevisor Mead, the repairing of a 100 foot span of the Gualala river bridge was let to H. A. Richardson for $2,500, that being his bid for the same.

The repairing of bridges and culverts on the Stewart's Point and Skaggs Springs road was also let to Mr. Richardson for the sum of $500.

It was ordered that 4 per cent of all road money be set apart for the purpose of creating a general road fund.

The sum of $6,237.35 was ordered transferred from the general fund to the swamp and overflowed land fund and $1,000 from the general fund to the rebate fund.

The Auditor was ordered to apportion all road monies to the various road districts.

In pursuance of the provisions of Section 2652 of the Political Code the Board then proceeded to levy the road poll tax for the year 1892, which was finally fixed at $2 for each male citizen between the ages of 21 and 55 years.

The Board then resumed the examination of claims against the county, and at 5 P M. adjourned until 9 o'clock Thursday morning.

There were produced in the United States last year 141,226,513 tons of coal.

Frightful Shipwreck.

Staunch ships strike and founder, the fierce winds and mountainous waves sweep noble mariners, "hearts of oak," to shipwreck and to death, yet that does not prevent the lubberliest landsman from risking his life on the stormy Atlantic in the role of tourist or commercial traveler. But if he shall reach his destination safely he will scarcely have escaped some of the qualms of sea sickness unless he takes with him Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that inimitable specific for nausea. Bad water on long trips is a threat to the voyager, but this may be deprived in a great measure of its disordering effects upon the stomach, bowels and liver by the Bitters. Against the prejudicial effects of malaria, bad diet, fatigue and exposure it is efficacious. It averts, moreover, rheumatism and kidney complaints. Don't travel on sea or land without it.

She Is Always Ready.

There are, as we all know—and too often assert—both men and women who are "all hands and feet." The man is simply pitied, but the woman—heaven help the woman! She is scolded, pecked at, sat down on by everybody to the fourth cousin and the third generation. She is next to a martyr. The bowels of our compassion fairly yearn when we picture the reveries of the tactless woman. In sheer eagerness to avoid contemplating her we seek her antipodes—the careful woman or the careful man.

Whether it is a merrymaking or the last sad rites; a picnic, a charity, a birth or a wedding—the precision exercised by certain careful men and women we have met is worthy of a monument. The provision is equal to all occasions, vanquishes all seasons. From the warming of a bed in the coldest night of the season to the laying on of a poultice, the exactness, the precision and provision of the man or woman who thinks of everything is so marked that it excites the admiration of the average, while the tactless one takes refuge in silence and can only look on dumbly. Should a fire startle the family in the early morning hours the caretaker, we are prepared to maintain, will be found with the right garments on ready to direct the hoseman just where to squirt, while the tactless one is tossing a hat box and a music box out of a window or carrying an armful of shoes down stairs.

Nothing short of an earthquake or tornado could disturb the equipoise of the caretaker of the family. He or she knows precisely where to put their hands on pins and matches in the dark. The woman never forgets to salt anything. The man never was known to fail to post the letter intrusted to him promptly. These are the people we defer to. If we had our way we would erect monuments to them and see to it that their virtues were engraved in a fitting manner.—Pittsburg Bulletin.

"Fruit Manners."

"Fruit manners," as a girl aptly designates them, are a distinct department of table etiquette. Strawberries, hulled, are eaten with spoon or fork; unhulled, are taken in the fingers separately and daintily and dipped in sugar before being conveyed to the mouth. Apples, pears and peaches should be divided before being attempted in mouthfuls—although a ripe pear may be halved and eaten with a spoon. The same utensil should be employed with melon, though a fork which has one tine slightly broadened is often seen for this fruit. At English tables spoons are served for bananas as well, although when these are served as a single fruit course sherry or claret is usually sent around with the whole fruit. A few drops are poured on the plate, and the banana, stripped of its skin, is dipped in the wine and thus eaten.

Oranges seem to offer as many methods of eating as there are varieties of the fruit. The Florida fashion of halving it across the grain and taking out the juice and fine pulp with a dessert spoon is a neat way and gives one all the desirable part of the fruit; some eat an orange quite as daintily by tearing it in small sections and taking the fruit in mouthfuls; this method needs a little practice before being attempted at formal tables, as the inexperienced, with a juicy Havana or India river, speedily gets himself into trouble.—Her Point of View in New York Times.

MRS. GRAHAM'S

CUCUMBER and ELDER FLOWER CREAM.

Is not a cosmetic in the sense in which that term is popularly used, but permanently beautifies. It creates a soft, smooth, clear, velvety skin, and by daily use gradually makes the complexion several shades whiter. It is a constant protection from the effects of sun and wind, and prevents sun burns and freckles, and blackheads will not come while you use it. It cleanses the face far better than soap and water, nourishes and builds up the skin tissues and thus prevents the formation of wrinkles. It gives the freshness, clearness and smoothness of the skin that you had when a little girl. Every lady, young or old ought to use it, as it gives a more youthful appearance to any lady, and that permanently. It contains no acid, powder or alkali and is as harmless as dew and as nourishing to the skin as dew is to the flower. Price $1.00, at all druggists and hair-dressers, or at Mrs. Gervaise Graham's establishment, 104 Post street San Francisco, where she treates ladies for all blemishes of the face and figure. The storm the past week has been very heavy in this section. The early sown grain is coming up very rapidly, and the hills surrounding the valley are putting on a mantle of green. As we go to press (4 P. M. Friday) the rain still continues to fall.

The meeting of the Sonoma Valley Exhibit Committee at the City Pavilion this afternoon at 2 o'clock is called for the purpose of conveying the funds in the hands of the committe into a public receiving vault in Mountain Cemetery. The money could not be spent to better advantage.

Banjamin Goodwin died at his home near this place yesterday morning at five o'clock of pneumonia. The deceased came to this valley several years ago with his family and purchased the Morse place, upon which he had made many improvements. He was a gentleman of the old school and had many friends in this State. He was a native of Canada and 72 years of age. The funeral of deceased will take place from his late residence to-morrow (Sunday.)

One by one the old residents of Sonoma are passing away. It becomes our painful duty this week to again record the death of one of Sonoma's pioneer lady residents. Mrs. Ithoda Choate, sister of O. W. Craig and G. W. Clark of this place, died in Petaluma last Saturday evening of an abscess in the chest. Mrs. Choate resided in Sonoma Valley for over thirty years and was a kind-hearted and Christian lady. She was a native of Rockport, Mass., and had reached the ripe old age of 76 years. The funeral took place in Petaluma last Sunday.

Jas. Lafranchi and Albert Fochetti, proprietors of the saloon opposite the freight depot, celebrated the New Year by engaging in a rough-and-tumble and catch-as-catch-can fight in their bar-room on Friday evening of last week. The fight lasted for several hours. The men would quit hostilities for a short time and as soon as thay had regained their wind, would start in again, with the result that Lafranchi was worsted in the wind-up. The following day he had Fochetti arrested and put under bonds to answer to the charge of battery. The men will ventilate their grievances before Judge Cheney and a jury next Tuesday. In the meantime the saloon will remain closed.

THUMB-SCREWED AND ROBBED.

Patrick Breslin's Experience in this Place on New Years Night.

Patrick Breslin, employed in sinking a well on the Dr. Wooster ranch, claims to have been robbed of a small sum of money in this place on New Years night about 8:30 o'clock by Chinese. The circumstances of the robbery as narrated by Breslin are very peculiar. He claims that he was slightly under the influence of liquor on the evening in question, but not so much so as not to be able to recollect everything that took place. He states that as he was passing a Chinese house on Spain street he was accosted by a Chinese in a friendly manner and invited into the den. As soon as the door closed upon the partly intoxicated man he was seized by both arms by the Chinese in the room, and the thumb of his left hand thrust into some kind of a contrivance, which closed down on it and caused him such intense pain as to render him powerless in the hands of the robbers. They then proceeded to go through his pockets and abstracted the sum of $2 75, all the money he had on his person. Breslin was then released and thrust out of the door, and struck on the head and for a time was completely dazed. No arrests have as yet been made as it would be hard to identify and convict Breslin's assailants, as he was alone at the time and there were no witnesses to the assault and robbery except Chinese.

CITY TRUSTEES.

Suggested City Improvements Get a Black Eye

The Board of City Trustees met in regular session last Wednesday evening.

Trustees Poppe, Weyl, Wegner and Litzius were present. Trustee Bulotti was absent, being confined to his bed with la grippe. The meeting was characterized by almost every proposition looking to the improvement of the town being voted down.

Trustee Wegner of the Street Committee recommended the following appropriations.

First—That $100 be transferred from the General Fund to the sewer fund. Voted down by Trustees Weyl and Poppe.

Second—That $300 be appropriated for the improvement of the Plaza—that is to say, the completion of the fence partly surrounding the same, and the cultivation of the trees and shrubs therein. Trustee Wegner moved that said appropriation be made, but it was defeated, as neither Trustees Litzius, Weyl or Poppe would second the motion.

Third—That an appropriation of $150 be made for curbing the west side of First-street East and the north side of Patten street. This proposition was carried unanimously.

Fourth—That $150 be used for curbing the north side of Napa street from the corner of Second street East to the bridge near the Methodist Church. The proposition was lost, Trustees Poppe and Weyl voting no.

Fifth—That $100 be appropriated for the improvement of Second-street East. When this proposition came up Trustee Weyl made a motion, which was seconded by Trustee Litzius, that the appropriation be made, provided that the property owners on the west side of said street remove their fences on the established line of the street.

Sixth—That $75 be voted to improve Napa street from First-street West to the Presentation Convent. Carried unanimously.

The following bills were allowed and ordered paid; J. Reve, $12 50; Lee Bulotti, $8.15; W. W. Ellis, $5. 40; Wm. Green, $25.

Clerk Breitenbach presented his semi-annual report of the financial condition of the city up to December 31st. The report was referred to the Finance Committee.

The matter of building a bridge and approaches across the creek which crosses Second-street East near the residences of F. Duhring and F. Clewe, came up for discussion, and on motion of Trustee Weyl, seconded by Trustee Litzius, the clerk was instructed to make inquiries as to the cost of the same.

Jas. Albertson appeared before the Board and complained about the condition of the sidewalk on the east side of Broadway. The matter was referred to the Street Committee.

The Board then adjourned.

Death of Green Hinkston.

Green B. Hinkston, the well-known owner of the Half-way House at Lakeville, on the Sonoma and Petaluma road, died at his home last Monday evening of Bright's disease of the kidneys. Mr. Hinkston was an old Californian, having came to this State in 1850. Deceased was a brother-in-law of J. W. Palmer of Petaluma. He was a native of Missouri and aged 58 years.

Simmons Liver Regulator is the foe of malaria as it throws off the bile and prevents its accumulating.

A REAL LIVE BEAR.

His Lair in the Foothills Which Fringe the Southern Part of the Valley.

On Wednesday last the foot-prints of a large grizzly or black bear were discovered by a duck-hunter in the lower field of Peter Kiser's dairy and grain farm, bordering the foothills south of Sonoma. The hunter's attention was first attracted to the bear's footprints by the strange conduct of his dog.

The tracks, which are embedded in soft adobe soil to the depth of half an inch in some places, show bruin to be quite large and that he was heading toward the foothills which border the Kiser ranch on the south. These hills are penetrated by arroyos and almost inaccessible ravines which are covered with a heavy undergrowth. It is in one of these ravines that his bearship evidently has his lair. The hills are a portion of the Bihler tract of several thousand acres recently purchased by Senator Jas. G. Fair, who, no doubt never dreamed that he had secured a real live bear as a "too-boot" to his bargain.

For years stock of various kinds belonging to Wm. Bihler have roamed the foothills and ravines in question and no doubt bruin has had many a daily meal at Bihler's expense, although no complaints of his depredations have ever reached this office. The presence of the bear in the Kiser grain field is accounted for on the supposition that he wanted a change of diet, which was afforded by the newly sown grain.

A VICTIM OF LA GRIPPE.

William Alexander Expires Very Suddenly Last Monday Morning.

William Alexander, residing on his 30-acre farm a few miles southeast of town, expired very suddenly last Monday morning at 1 o'clock. About three weeks ago deceased was taken down with la grippe, and being a stout robust man thought to shake off the disease and did not think the services of a physician necessary. A few days before he died he became suddenly worse and called in his physician. The disease had then taken such a hold on him that medical skill was powerless to save him and on Monday morning he suddenly fell back on his pillow and expired.

The deceased, who was a bachelor, came to Sonoma some fourteen years ago and purchased a small farm which he cultivated in a careful and successful manner. He was a conscientious member of the Methodist Church and an upright and honest citizen. The deceased leaves a brother, Mr. Alexander, residing in Tomales, Marin county, and two cousins, one living in Petaluma and one in Cordelia. He was a native of Ireland and aged 37 years.

Deceased's funeral took place at 1 P. M. Wednesday, an impressive funeral service being conducted in the M. E. Church by the Rev. Mr. Woodward. The remains were interred in Mountain Cemetery. The funeral was largely attended by relatives and friends.

AMMONIA OR ALUM.

Baking Powders.

HOW TO DETECT THEM.

Ammonia and alum are the most common adulterants used in the manufacture of baking powders. The Government report shows that a large percentage of the baking powders on the market contain either one or the other or both these pernicious drugs. Ammonia particularly is in very general use.

This wholesale use in an article of daily food of one of the most injurious is simply criminal. Slow ammonia poisoning produces diseases of the stomach and is particularly injurious to the complexion. The presence of ammonia in a baking powder, however, can easily be detected.

TO DETECT AMMONIA.

Mix one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder with one teaspoonful of water in a tin cup; boil thoroughly for a few moments, stir to prevent burning, and if ammonia is present you can smell it in the rising steam, or place a can of the suspected powder top down on a hot stove for a minute or two, then take off the cover and smell.

TO DETECT ALUM.

Alum powder can be tested by putting a couple of teaspoonfuls of the powder in a glass of cold water. If no effervescence, that is bubbling or simmering, takes place, condemn the goods and return them at once.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is reported by all authorities as free from alum, ammonia, or any other adulterant.

SANTA ROSA LETTER.

Boz Again Shows Up After a Long Silence.

ED INDEX-TRIBUNE:

We have had the grip. (The editorial license is used in the case of "we" and we have recovered from the grip. But our feeble condition after such a struggle, both physical and mental, has rendered us almost unaware of the fact that even the INDEX-TRIBUNE has passed safely through the prevalent epidemic.

Well, it has hit right and left in Santa Rosa, and from reports this part of the county is not much worse off than other localities. But when Sonoma the healthiest part of the county has a majority of its inhabitants on the sick list there must be something "in it."

The late rain, or storm as it could properly be called, has helped very materially in restoring the healthfulness of the community to the common standard.

But notwithstanding the benefit the storm from a sanitary standpoint, it has been attended with many undesirable and expensive features. The roads in the northern and western portions of the county are damaged to a great extent. Culverts and bridges in large numbers have been carried away by the late disastrous freshet. Landslides and wash-outs have made an unusual amount of labor necessary to place the highways in a passable condition.

The Supervisors, under the provisions of the "Special Emergency Act," have already let contracts for the repairing and replacing of a number of the bridges. It is hoped to have everything in good order in a short time.

The roads of Sonoma township, through the efficiency of the late P. L. McGill and his successor, Road Overseer Johnny Kearney, have suffered least of all. This is only indicative of Sonoma's general position. She doesn't take many second places.

The Board of Supervisors have been hard at work this week and among other matters have fixed the road poll tax at $2. This will make some of the boys wrathy no doubt, but they cannot help themselves. The Supervisors are also talking of cutting down the feeding of prisoners in the County Jail from 35 cents per capita per diem to a still smaller figure.

Real estate is picking up somewhat in this locality and throughout the county, and from indications lively times may be expected in that line before the advent of summer. A spirit of improvement is also manifest in Santa Rosa and appears to be general. Everything tends to a prosperous season ahead.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 9, 1892.

The Day After Christmas.

The day after Christmas is often the most utterly forlorn of all in the year to certain of the children, if no precaution is taken to impress their minds beforehand with the fact that the holiday, so great to them, is only the first of a series of many days in which they are to enjoy their presents. Waiting until the next Christmas has a most doleful outlook to little tots. A year! A whole year! How short a span to those of us who have seen thirty or forty or fifty of them, but what an illimitable future to those who haven't yet known the vicissitudes of half a dozen!

Nervous and excitable little folks who have been indulging their expectations for days or weeks will, when the surprises and novelties are all digested, suffer a sort of reaction and go to bed on Christmas night depressed with the idea that "it's all over;" and while unfortunately it is true and is only a foretaste of what they must learn on a more extended scale when they grow up, we can plan beforehand little ways of softening the blow, especially for the youngest.

"Doesn't Cwissmas be any more tomorrow?" asked a little three-year-old in our family, with a half frightened look in her sleepy eyes! "Oh, yes!" she was hastily assured, "always for babies." And when she had been securely stowed away in the land of nod a deal of scurrying was done to prepare a trifling surprise of some sort for every morning of the next week.

The tendency on all holidays is to overdo, and for this reason, if for no other, it is well to hold something in reserve for the end of the day—some toy or game that has an element of permanence and which will serve as a link to connect the days following with the one of greatest celebration. Then, when sleepy time comes, it will not be shadowed with the pall of regret—so severe to little folks—that Christmas is all over and that there is to be no more rejoicing of the same sort for twelve weary months.—Babyhood.

How Society News Gets Into Newspapers.

A man who makes a business of collecting society news for the newspapers told of a rather queer experience the other day. He called upon a certain well known leader of the Four Hundred, who was to give a swell coming out tea for her daughter. She received him most graciously, but when he asked her for information about the tea, who were to be present, the flowers, the costumes, etc., she threw up her dimpled hands, and a look of horror and amazement came over her face as she protested that not one line should be printed about the affair. She berated the young man for asking her such questions, and entered a vigorous protest against newspapers prying into the affairs of other people. She was most emphatic in her remarks, and arose with flushed face and coolly bowed the young man to the door.

The next day the society reporter received a note from a gentleman friend, an acquaintance of the lady, saying that Mrs. So-and-So had sent him information about the tea, with a request that he would have it inserted in the newspapers. This friend was too busy to copy the lady's letter, and so he sent it to the reporter that he might have the information at first hand. This letter was most minute in its details and was in the lady's own handwriting. The gentleman who had received it had not read the postscript asking him to return the letter and let no one know the lady gave the information. The society reporter brutally returned the letter to the lady with thanks for the information, regretting that she could not have given it at first hand.

It would be interesting to know what the lady who wrote the letter and was guilty of the clumsy subterfuge had to say when her missive was returned.—Foster Coates in New York Mail and Express.

A Bride's Dilemma.

A charming young lady walked into a hair dresser's establishment in the southeastern section of the city one day last week and informed the proprietress that she wanted her hair thoroughly washed and shampooed, her bangs frizzed and curled and her tresses dressed in the highest style of the art. The attendants started in, and after duly admiring the magnificent luxuriance and fine silken quality of the fair one's golden locks—and they were beautiful—proceeded with the shampooing process. Then it was necessary to fan the hair and put it into a warm box to dry it. The customer interrupted this portion of the performance by saying suddenly, "Please hurry up the other part of this business; I am to be married in an hour."

"But," exclaimed the startled hairdresser, "it will require all that time to dry your hair, and I can't dress it until it is dry. "Fix it somehow," was the reply. "I can't keep the young man, the minister and the guests waiting." Her hair was piled up on her head, wet as it was, and after the bang had been arranged she left, saying, "I'm not going away, and I'll run run in tomorrow and let you finish up the job." "I haven't seen the bride since," said the lady of the establishment in telling the story, "and I suppose she's too happy to think of even her hair. She paid me all right, but I or some one else will have a terrible time in putting that young wife's head in order one of these days."—Philadelphia Record.

She Took a Header.

An accident to a lady bicyclist from Philadelphia, due to a peculiar cause, has just occurred here. She was riding a "safety," such as even reckless masculine wheelmen do not expect to take "headers" from. Plunging suddenly and deeply into the thick mud near Christ's church, her wheel stopped as if it had struck a stone fence. Headlong over the bicycle and into the quagmire the lady was thrown. Before she could right herself she was completely covered with the oozy mud. And such a sorry sight! How she got back to her Philadelphia home is a mystery.—Bridgeport Cor. Philadelphia Record.
